In a letter to his sister Lovicy, after the death of this dearly beloved wife in September or October, 1847, he pays the highest tribute to her worth. He says : "You say you perceive by the notice in the paper that my wife died a Christian. Lovicy, if I know what a Christian is, she was one. She not only died a Christian but she lived one. Not by profession, but by her every act, her every deed proclaimed her a follower of Christ. In her the hungry and naked have lost a benefactor, the sick a nurse, and I have lost a friend who taught me to reverence God, by doing good to his creatures."

His ancestors were of good English stock and several of the connection made honorable mark in our Revolutionary history. Young Almon was his father's principal assistant in his business enterprises, and with the advantage of a thorough business and parental training, he settled in what was then the little hamlet of Rochester, and began business as a merchant on September 1, 1830. He was married to Elvira Jamieson in 1827, who had been a ward of his parents. Although themselves childless, Mr. and Mrs. Mack performed the duty of parents to three orphaned children. He represented Oakland County in the legislature in 1848. He was tendered the secretaryship of the first Legislative Council but declined on account of ill health. He also from time to time held various other local offices. Mr. Mack was a type of the true old fashioned gentleman. For twenty-five years before his death he was almost totally blind. The application of legal principles to this department of business is clearly and briefly explained, and is accompanied at every point by reference to authorities, which shows the exhaustive research of the writer. When it is remembered that not less than ninety-five per cent of the banking business of the present time is carried on by means of checks the value of a thoroughly reliable and comprehensive work of reference to bank officials and employes will be appreciated. ## APPENDIX XXI.-A.

RECORDS OF VARIOUS PERSONS BEARING THE NAME OF DEY.

285100. LAWRENCE DEY, 1669. Jan Laurens Duyts, who left the town this year, was the son of Laurens Duyts, nick-named Great Shoe, a Dane, b. in Holstein in 1610. The father was banished by Stuyvesant, an easy thing for him to do, and seldom wisely done, but Duyts' case would seem to have been an exception. He died at Bergen, Jan. 14, 1668, leaving two sons, Jan and Hans. Kuyter stood as godfather for both at their baptism. Hans was born in 1644 and lived at Harlem in 1667. His daughter Catharine, born in 1674, married, in 1688, Joost Paulding from Cassant, Holland, who went to Westchester and was the ancestor of John Paulding, one of André's captors; also of Gen. William Paulding, formerly Mayor of New York. Jan Duyts bore a good name at Harlem and did not deserve the taunt uttered one day by Jeanne de Ruine in presence of Morris Peterson, "You schelm, loop by you vaar Deen." "You villain, run to your father Dane." Morris testified that Jan said nothing to provoke it. He was then twenty years old and the same year, Nov. 22, 1662, bought of Lubbert Gerritsen the house and bouwery formerly of Matthys Boon, engaging to pay for it 300 gl. He sold out the next year and Resolved Waldron soon after got this property. In 1667 Duyts was working for Gerritsen aforesaid and married that year; but on Jan. 8, 1669, he leased a farm at Dutch Kills from John Parcell and lived there when he married a second time in 1673. His wives were Jeannetie Jeuriaens, from Bois le Duc, and Neeltie Adriaens, from Breda; the last married, in 1679, Hendrick VanDyck of New Utrecht. Duyts left some property to his two children, Laurens and Annetie. 1663, Jan Laurens and others

✓ BOARD FAMILY IN ENGLAND.

Memorandum on the family of Boord, Board, Bourd, Borde, by Harry Percy Boord, M.A., Cambridge :

The name is derived from the Anglo-Saxon word Bord which had an extensive original meaning. (I.) a board, table ; (II.) a ship ; (III.) and at one time a wooden cottage. It is from the last that the name is directly derived. The term Bordarii was used down to the end of the XIIIth. century for a particular class of tenant. Dr. Barber in "British family names" mentions one Borda as among those holding land in time of King Edward, the confessor. The earliest forms of spelling the name with earliest date : Borde, 1189 ; Bourd, 1327; Boord, 1413; Board, 1597. Important members of the family: Dr. Andrew Boorde, "poet, physician, courtier and priest," as Lower styles him, was born about 1490 in Sussex, chiefly known as the original "Merry Andrew." Dr. John Boord, LL.D., senior fellow of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and Kings Professor of Laws there. Born at Batscombe Co., Somerset, 1634; died before 1686. My branch of the family descended from his brother Samuel. Sir Stephen Boord, Knight, born in 1563; built Boord Hill in the parish of Cuckfield, Sussex. Subscribed, 1588, £30 for defense of the country against Spanish Armada. Sheriff for County Sussex, 1628. Knighted, July 23, 1603; died, 1630. Sir William Boord, Baronet (my father), present head of our branch of the family, born 1838. M.P. for Greenwich, 1873-1895. Created a baronet by her late majesty, Feb. 18, 1896, "to hold to him and the heirs male of his body." The family from whom I descend came from Batscombe in Somersetshire, where they have been land owners since a very early date. In I. Ed. III., Robert Bourde was holding land at Batscombe (1327). My father still holds land there as trustee for an Australian branch of the family. The Sussex branch appears at Cuckfield in one Stephen Boord, 1528, who appears 32 Hen. VIII. (1540), as a collector of the rape of Lewes. I have traced a branch of the family to Devonshire. On Feb. 27, 1831, William Bord left for New York (I have a note, 69 Federal St.), with his wife and family, he had previously lived at Bruton, Co. Somerset. He had married the granddaughter of Thomas Southcot, of Brewham Lodge, Esq. He had three sons and two daughters. A branch of the family appears for a short time in Suffolk but are now extinct. The pedigree I give is duly proved and recorded in the College of Arms, London. I inclose a book plate to show the arms of the family as now used.

DEAR SIR:—I have been in correspondence with a Mr. Buckner Board of 107 E. College St., Louisville, Kentucky, on the history of the Boord, Board or Borde family, and he has sent me a circular letter issued by you. I have a large quantity of mss. on this subject and if, as I understand is the case, you are writing a history of this family, I have a large mass of material collected by two members of my family, 1684 and 1836, myself and several eminent genealogists, the late Mr. M. A. Lower, of Lewis, and others. Should you care to write to me I should be very pleased to hear from you.

Yours faithfully,

AYRES HISTORY.

In Thorpe's catalogue of the deeds of Battle Abbey we find the following: "Ayres, or Eyre. The first of this family was named Truelove, who was one of the followers of William the Conqueror. At the battle of Hastings, A.D. 1066, Duke William was thrown from his horse and his helmet beaten into his face; which Truelove observing, pulled it off and horsed him again. The Duke told him, 'Thou shalt be from Truelove called Eyre (or air), because thou hast given me the air I breathe.' After the battle the Duke, on inquiry respecting him, found him severely wounded (the leg and thigh having been struck off). He ordered him the utmost care, and on his recovery gave him lands in Derby in reward for his services, and the leg and thigh in armor cut off for his crest, an honorary badge yet worn by all the Eyres in England." In Volume 10, 1st series of Notes and Queries, is the following, taken from Rhodes' Peak Scenery, page 244: "The Eyres is one of the oldest families in Derbyshire, where they have continued to reside more than seven hundred years, as appears from the following curious extract from an old pedigree which is preserved at Hassop"—(here follows the preceding matter down to the word Derby, when follows): "and the seat he lived at he called Hope, because he had hope in the greatest extremity." Coat of Arms of the family now at Rampton Arms: Arg. on a chev. sa. three-quarter foils; or, Crest: a leg in armour, couped at the thigh and spur. Seat: Rampton. Mr. Carman says: "I have the coats of arms of all the families in England, but they vary but little from the above, and I am inclined to believe, for reasons which I will give, that the original Derby family now represented at Rampton is the one from which our Ayer is descended. From the comparison of coats of arms, and some tedious researches in the old country histories of England, I am convinced a family of Eyre of Wiltshire, England, is a branch of the Rampton family, and I give you Eyre of Wiltshire: The old Wiltshire family of Eyre enjoyed for several centuries the highest distinction within its native county, and was of consideration in the State, most of its chiefs having had seats in Parliament, and two of them learned in the law, upon the bench, one a Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas. A branch, too, which emigrated to Ireland attained the peerage of that country. 1. Thomas Eyer, Esq., of New Sarum, lineally descended from Humphrey LeHeyer, of Bronham, Wilts., held lands in Wimborn, County of Dorset, in 21st year of the reign of Elizabeth. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Rogers, Esq., of Poole, and had issue: 2. Robert, his heir, born 1559. 3. Giles, of Brickworth in Wiltshire, from whom came the family of the extinct Lord Eyre of Ireland. (He obtained the peerage of Ireland.) 4. Christopher, born 1578, founder of Eyre's Hospital at Sarum. 5. Thomas, born 1580. Mayor of Sarum, 1620. 6. William, born 1585. Barrister at Law. 7. John, born 1587-90; moved to New England and settled at Haverhill, 1636-8. 8. Elizabeth. Married G. Tooker. 9. Catherine. Married Thomas Hooper. 10. Rebecca. Married John Love. 11. Anne. Married John Swan."

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN AYRES OF SALISBURY, IPSWICH AND HAVERHILL,
MASS. (1635.)

320000. JOHN AYER. 160000. 198000. He was the sixth child and youngest son of Thomas Eyre of Wiltshire, England, and his wife Elizabeth Rogers, which Thomas was 5th in descent from Galpedus LeHeyer in the time of Edward II. Among the emigrants arriving in Massachusetts Bay Colony from England during the time that Charles I. ruled without a Parliament, 16-1640, were large numbers from the vicinity of Ipswich and Haverhill in Suffolk, Salisbury in Wiltshire and Newbury. In establishing themselves in the new country, they named their settlements after their English home towns. Thus Ipswich in Massachusetts was founded in 1633, Newbury in 1635, Salisbury in 1639, and Haverhill in 1640. Conspicuous among these early settlers was John Ayer, who was born in Wiltshire England, possibly in Suffolk in 1592. He died March 31, 1657, at Haverhill, Mass., leaving a wife named Hannah (?) who died July 13, 1686, aged 88. He is thought to have reached New England in 1637. He brought with him eight children and settled probably first at Salisbury as he was living there in 1640; he removed to Ipswich prior to 1645 and in that year became a resident of Haverhill, where he remained until his death in 1657. John's name generally appears in the Massachusetts record as Ayer, but is also frequently inscribed Eyres. He and his three brothers, Robert, Thomas and Peter were leading men among the earliest settlers of Haverhill. The descendants of these four brothers are very numerous (5000). In 1700 it was supposed that nearly one-third of the inhabitants of Haverhill township were Ayers. John built a house which together with its land was valued in 1646 at £160. The plot faced the main highway on the north, its southern boundary being the Merrimac river. Since that time it has been continuously occupied by his descendants, the late Captain John Ayer, its last owner, having been of the sixth generation. In 1645 John Ayer was among Haverhill's thirty-two land owners; on Feb. 13, 1647, he was fined for not attending the town meeting in season; on June 7, 1652, he received eight acres as his proportion of the second distribution of town lands; on March 12, 1657, nineteen days before his death he executed his will which mentions six sons and three daughters all living at Haverhill. The will was attested by Henry Palmer, the father of the wife of John's son Robert and a fairly equitable division was made among the children of the real estate, which comprised two dwellings and a number of outlying parcels of land. His wife was given the homestead during her life and the major part of his cattle and personal property. The estate was appraised at £248-5-0. The items of the inventory are here given to show the character of goods and chattels possessed by a well-to-do New England Yeoman of two hundred years ago:

A true inventory of ye goods and cattell of John Eyers, Sr., of Haverhill, lately deceased, as it was prized by us, Robert Clement and James Dennis, Sr., and Henry Palmer, ye tenth of ye second month one thousand six hundred and fifty-seven.

The homestead at the death of the widow was to go to the testator's oldest son John chargeable with certain cash payments to his brothers and sisters. In the above inventory no mention is made of a second house and house lot which by the will was given to his son Nathaniel when his apprenticeship is out with his master French, and during Hannah Ayres' widowhood she appears to have been active in affairs, purchased and sold land, and previous to 1675 built a new house "on the commons".

SECOND GENERATION.

320100. JOHN AYER. (John.) 160001. He was born in England in 1623 and died after 1700; married first time May 5, 1646, Sarah, daughter of John Williams; married second time March 26, 1663, Mary, daughter of John Wooddam. In 1645 he was one of Haverhill's thirty-two land owners and in 1650 his property was valued at £80. His name repeatedly appears in Haverhill records in connection with lands and in 1660 he built a new house. He was a famous hunter and trapper and his skill and sagacity in woodcraft equalled that of the Indians, with whom he was in constant rivalry that not infrequently it amounted to an open warfare. About 1665 a serious trouble with the natives obliged him in order to save his life to remove secretly and without his family to Connecticut, where he settled in what is now known as Ayers' Gap, in the vicinity of Franklin, where he lived by himself pursuing his favorite vocation and many traditions of his adventures with Indians and wild beasts form the theme of stories related of him by his posterity. These tales delineate him as a man of great endurance, heroic fortitude and striking eccentricities. Just before his death his son Joseph joined his father in Connecticut bringing with him his children Joseph and Timothy. Their descendants still remain in Franklin. He was killed by the Indians when they destroyed the town of Brookfield, Mass., Aug. 3, 1675. Their children were all born at Haverhill, Mass.

320170. OBADIAH AYER. (John.) 160100. He was the founder of the Ayers family of New Jersey. His father, John Ayer, came from Hampton on ship James for Newbury, April 5, 1635. Obadiah married, March 19, 1660 (o. 1661), Hannah, daughter of John Pike of Newbury, Mass., removed to New Jersey some time between the years 1665-9 and died there Nov. 14, 1694. His wife was born April 26, 1643, at Newbury, Mass. She died May 31, 1689. Hannah Pike, the wife of Obadiah Ayers, was the daughter and third child of John Pike of Newbury, Mass., he being the son and second child of John Pike who emigrated from Langford, Eng., and died in Salisbury, Mass., in 1654. John Pike married (1st), Mary (?), by whom he had nine children. He married (2nd) (1685), Elizabeth Randolph of Piscataway, N. J. He died in Jan., 1689, and was the ancestor of Major Zebulon Pike of the Revolutionary War, and of his son, Gen. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, who wrote his name among the clouds on one of the loftiest peaks of the Rocky Mountains. Gen. Pike was born at Lambertton, Mercer Co., N. J., in 1779, of Woodbridge parents. Distinguished himself in the War of 1812 and was killed in action at York, Canada, April 27, 1813. Between 1665 and 1667 John Pike removed from Newbury, Mass., to Middlesex Co., N. J. The occasion and manner of his migration being as follows: When Charles II. ascended the throne of England he was lavish in his rewards to those who had been faithful to the cause of the Stuarts during the time of the Commonwealth. Among such persons were Lord John Berkeley and Sir George Carteret, to whom through his brother James, the Duke of York, he granted all that portion of the brown lands in North America, lying between the mouth of the Hudson and Delaware rivers embracing what has since been known as New Jersey. These lords-proprietors dispatched to their new possessions as Governor, Philip Carteret a fourth cousin of Sir George Carteret. He arrived in August, 1665, establishing his seat of government at Elizabethtown which he named in honor of the lady Elizabeth, the wife of his cousin Sir George. Four families at his capitol, together with the small Dutch settlement of Bergen, constituted about all his people he had to govern. In order to secure a population for his wilderness provinces he sent agents to New England, who published what was known as the "Concessions and agreements of the Lords-proprietors" which offered liberal inducements to settle such as property in estates and liberty in religion. The immediate result of these publications was the establishment of Woodbridge, Piscataway and Newark. Among the earliest arrivals in New Jersey were John Pike, Daniel Pierce and seven associates from Newbury, Mass. They entered into an agreement on Dec. 11, 1666, whereby on Dec. 3, 1667, they received a grant of land including what is now the township of Woodbridge. They, as representatives of at least sixty families which they induced to move to New Jersey, on the 1st of June, 1669, were granted a charter creating a township covering six miles square. The name of the new settlement was derived from their late pastor, John Woodbridge, of Newbury, Mass. John Pike appears to have been the patriarch of the new settlement. In the division of the town lands in Dec., 1667, he received 308 acres among the largest grants made. He was president of the town before 1671. In that year he was chosen one of Gov. Carteret's counsel and in 1675 he was appointed captain of the militia. Among the sixty families that John Pike brought to Woodbridge from that of Newbury was that of his son-in-law, Obadiah Ayers, which besides the father embraced the wife Hannah and two children, John seven years old and Samuel less than two. Obadiah Ayers probably reached Woodbridge in the summer of 1669 as he sold his homestead in Haverhill, Mass., to his brother Nathaniel, May 5, 1669, and on the 8th of Aug. of the same year he received a grant of 171 acres. These lands embraced 120 acres of upland to the northward of Langston's plains or farms, 30 acres of marsh on the Raritan meadows, 5 acres of meadow on the north side of the mouth of the Papiack creek and a house lot of 16 acres, bounded on the south by the house lot of his brother-in-law, Richard Worth, on the west by the highway and on the east by a "fresh brook running at the foot of Strabara Hill". This Strabara Hill is the place now owned by Hampton Centre in Woodbridge and a small creek divides it from the former house lot of Obadiah Ayers. The certificate of survey of these lands recites that the several parcels were laid out "By virtue of the Governor's warrant" for "Obediah Heirs". In like manner his name is spelled on several legal documents though generally he is mentioned as Ayers. He seems to have been a man of affairs, his name frequently appears as grantee and grantor in conveyances of land; in 1684 he was a member of the Grand Jury and in the same year the town authorities laid out for him an addition of 8 acres of upland at Shingle Hill. In this survey his name is inscribed "Obadiah Hayres". On the 30th of July, 1673, a Dutch squadron appeared at New York and with but little or no opposition from the English secured the submission of that city and all its dependencies. New Jersey in common with all the territory formerly known to the Dutch as New Netherlands again became tributary to Holland. Anthony Colve was appointed Governor with Peter Alricks as deputy who held their offices till the country was restored to England on the 31st of Oct., 1674, in consequence of the treaty of Westminster, 19th of Feb., 1674. The people of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware were required to send deputies to New York to make a declaration of submission to the Dutch. On the 1st of Sept., 1673, the inhabitants of Woodbridge submitted to the Dutch council of war at Fort William Hendrick the names of six leading citizens from whom schepens or magistrates were to be selected as representatives of the new government. The three men chosen on Aug. 24 and sworn in on Sept. 1, 1673, were recorded as "Samuel Dennis, Obediah Hoits, and Stephen Kent". The name of Hoits was the Dutch rendering of Haires, which was the equally erroneous manner that the name Ayers was submitted to the council. On Jan. 16, 1686, "Obediah Hayres" was chosen constable, and on the 10th of Nov., 1694, four days before he died, he executed his will. The signature is not autographic, but is inscribed "Obediah Aires (+) mark". As he had held public offices of importance we may conclude that he made his mark because of infirmity and not from lack of education. It must be acknowledged, however, that in several other instances he signed legal documents in this manner. The history of the "Ayres" family cannot be completed without reference to the settlement of Woodbridge, N. J. Lord Carteret having obtained grant and power over this part of New Jersey, sent hither his brother, afterwards Governor Carteret, to manage the same in his own way. Carteret arrived here from England in the fall of 1665. A large number followed him, chiefly from two places in New England. The original settlers, therefore, came from the town of Newbury, Mass., thirty-four miles northeast of Boston. The graves of the ancestry of the Ayres family may still be found there, and these are the people from whom came the original settlers of Woodbridge and Piscataway townships. In accord with an agreement made Dec., 1666, there was included an area of six miles square. Titles for lands within the bounds of the townships were given principally in the year 1670. Among the seventy who acquired titles for land we find the name of "Ayres". Obadiah Ayers was in Newbury, Mass., in 1663; probably died in Woodbridge, N. J., Nov. 14, 1694, whither he had removed: in 1671 he was a juryman in the first court in Woodbury township. Obadiah Hoits was one of six schepens in a council of war at Fort William Hendricks, Aug. 24, 1673. Obadiah Hayers was a constable.

He performed valiant service against the Indians in King Philip's War. On the 27th of August, 1708, Haverhill, then a compact village of about thirty houses, was attacked and almost entirely destroyed by Algonquins, St. Francois and the Penobscot Indians under the direction of the French forces from Canada. Sixteen of the inhabitants were massacred, including the pastor, Rev. Benjamin Rolfe and family, many made captives and when the enemy retreated they were followed by Captain Samuel Ayer with a company of twenty men who, though outnumbered thirteen to one, attacked them fearlessly killing nine of their number and retaking several prisoners. The Captain was shot in the groin and died just as his son reached the scene with reinforcements. He married Elizabeth Tuttle (daughter of Simon Tuttle).

321125. JOHN AYER. (Obadiah<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>.) 160500. He was born at Newbury, Mass., March 2, 1663. He married, Feb. 24, 1690 (o. 1689), Mary Walker. She died at Basking Ridge, N. J., in 1732. He received by his father's will sixty acres of farm land at Woodbridge, N. J., together with his right of commonage and ten acres of land the father had bought of John Clement. On Feb. 28, 1708, John Ayres was admitted to membership in the Presbyterian Church at Woodbridge, under the pastorate of Nathaniel Wade, his wife becoming a member on Dec. 26 of the same year. In 1717 he purchased land in Somerset Co., N. J., and within three years he removed to and permanently settled at Basking Ridge in Bernard's township in that county, where he undoubtedly was among the very early settlers. He was accompanied by all his children excepting his second son Thomas, who had married and remained at Woodbridge. John Ayers and his sons became active and leading men in that vicinity, especially in affairs connected with the Basking Ridge Presbyterian Church. In 1732 he conveyed to seven trustees of that congregation, one of whom being his son Obediah, one and one-half acres of land in the center of which, surrounded by a grove of trees, stood a log meeting house. This primitive structure was superseded in 1747 by a frame edifice that remained for 90 years. For 120 years John Ayers' descendants were identified with the interests of the congregation, as late as 1818 four families being members thereof. Rev. John C. Rankin in an historical address, preached Aug. 11, 1872, in speaking of John Ayers and his posterity, says: "Now the very name has passed away from us; though many of the descendants are doing good in other places. We owe them a debt of gratitude which should never be forgotten." John Ayers died without a will, letters of administration having been granted to Andrew Woodman, Nov. 30, 1732, "on estate of John Eyers". The Basking Ridge descendants seem generally to have adopted the spelling of Ayres.

He was born Nov. 6, 1819. He married (1st), in 1855, Artemisia Dunlap of Ovid, N. Y. She died in 1865, at Ft. Dodge, Iowa. He married (2nd), in 1869, Louise Bannister (daughter of Caleb Bannister of Phelps, N. Y.). She was born Aug. 10, 1835. He resided in Penn Yan, N. Y., 56 years, except a short residence in the West. He died Nov. 23, 1887. Louise Bannister died April 26, 1899. Stephen Beckwith Ayres was born at Trumansburg, N. Y., Nov. 6, 1819, and lived more than sixty-eight years. While yet a boy he moved from the old home and entered the employ of his older brother, Lewis, who was in business in Penn Yan and postmaster there a considerable time. Later he entered upon a business career for himself, having accumulated sufficient capital by careful savings. After being a merchant in his adopted village for a time, with varying success, he removed to Fort Dodge, Iowa, then a real frontier town. There he met with great financial prosperity, but was saddened by the death of his wife in 1865. His loneliness induced a sale of his western property and a return to the State of New York. For a time he was connected with his brother Socrates in Elmira, but finally returned to his earlier home in Penn Yan in 1868, living there the remainder of his days. Mr. Ayres was a man of strong convictions, a good man and a public spirited citizen. His literary attainments were considerable. He had educated himself and was fond of the best in both poetry and prose. He collected an excellent library and enjoyed it. While having no political aspirations for himself, he took an interest in all the questions of the day. Like many Free-Soil Democrats he joined the Republican party at its inception. He declined a nomination for Congress by the Republicans in a reasonably sure district, and later accepted one from the Prohibitionists, when it seemed his duty to do so. In 1855 he was married to Artemesia Dunlap of Ovid, N. Y., who died ten years later. In 1869 he was married for a second time to Louise Bannister of Lima, who survived him. Both of his wives were exceptionally intelligent and excellent women, and his married life was in each instance happy in the extreme. He possessed an affectionate, lovable disposition, taking his greatest pleasure in making his family content. Mr. Ayres would have been the last to wish himself made the subject of panegyric, but it would seem that in such characters as his, conscientious, industrious, moral and sympathetic, are all the qualities which make the good citizen. Of such men our country can never have too many.

"Adjoining Hudson County is the borough of Fairview, whose chief executive is Dr. Melanchon Sayre Ayers. Though having a large and lucrative practice, he has found time for real estate speculation, and also devotes a good portion of his time to politics. Rarely does one find a man who can successfully combine a profession, politics and general business together. This the subject of our sketch has done for many years.

"Dr. Ayers was born at Beemerville, N. J., Oct. 23, 1846. His maternal ancestors were of Holland and French descent. His father, however, was of Scotch descent. After graduating from the public schools, he prepared for college at Suffield, Conn., and for a time taught school in his native village. In 1868 he entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York, and desiring to procure a practical knowledge of medicine he purchased a drug store in New York and conducted the same during the first year of his college career. When graduated as an M.D., he secured an appointment as surgeon on board one of the Black Ball Packet line of steamers plying between New York and Liverpool. Upon severing his connection with the steamship company he began the practice of medicine in New York, and in 1872 he moved to Fairview. In 1873 he was appointed First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon to the Second Battalion, National Guard, and in 1876 was promoted to Major and Surgeon.

"Dr. Ayers was one of the leaders in the organization of the Fairview Borough, which occurred in 1894, and was elected its first mayor and has continually held the office since that time being re-elected again this spring. Dr. Ayres has been president of the Ridgefield Township Protective Association since 1882, and was appointed special police justice by Governor Abbett. He is a prominent member of the Bergen County Medical Society and an ex-president of that organization. He also devotes considerable time to real estate and was one of the founders of Grantwood and Grantwood Heights, two rapidly growing villages on the Palisades overlooking the Hudson river. In list of freemen in 1646, the valuation of each man's estate is given, and we find "John Ayer £160"—the largest but one on the list. He died March, 1657. In 1695 he was chosen Haverhill's first Town Treasurer. In 1700 he was chosen to fill a vacancy on the committee for the "rights of any in the common land," said vacancy being caused by the death of his uncle, "Cornet Peter Ayer." Haverhill was attacked by Indians Aug. 29, 1708, and after they began their retreat Capt. Ayer collected a body of twenty men, pursued and overtook them as they were entering the forest, when the Indians turned and gave battle. Capt. Ayer was soon reinforced by a party commanded by his son and after an hour's severe fighting, drove the enemy from the field. Capt. Ayer was killed before the arrival of the reinforcements, being shot through the groin, "and being a large, robust man, bled profusely." He was buried near Rev. Benj. Rolfe, Capt. ## AYRES HISTORY.

JOHN AYER OF HAVERHILL, MASS. (1635).

In Volume 10, 1st series of Notes and Queries, is the following taken from "Rhodes Peak scenery" page 244. "The Eyres is one of the oldest families in Derbyshire where they have continued to reside more than seven hundred years. The seat of Humphrey Lee Heyr called Hope because he had hope in the greatest extremity.

From Burke's "General Armory of England." Eyre. (Bromham, Wedhampton, Chalfield, New House, etc., County Wilts, descended from Humphrey LeHeyer of Bromham, whose great grandson, Galfridus de Eyre of Bromham, was living tempo Edward II. The derivative branches were the Eyres of Botley Grange, County Hants, the Eyres of Eyre Court Castle, County Galway, of whom was Lord Eyre, and Eyres of Macroom, County Cork.)

The coat-of-arms of all the families in England vary but little and the original Derby family now represented at Rampton is the one from which John Ayer of Haverhill, Mass., descended.

From comparison of coats-of-arms and some tedious researches in the old country histories of England it is certain that a family of Eyre of Wiltshire, England, is a branch of the Rampton family.

The old Wiltshire family of Eyre enjoyed for several centuries the highest distinction within its native country and was of consideration in the State, most of its chiefs having had seats in Parliament, and two of them learned in the law, upon the bench,—one a Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, a branch to which emigrated to Ireland, attained the peerage of that Kingdom.

THOMAS EYRE, ESQ., of New Sarum, lineally descended from Humphrey LeHeyer of Bromham, Wilts, held lands in Wimborn, County of Dorset, in 21st year of the reign of Elizabeth. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Rogers, Esq., of Poole, and had issue :

His wife Hannah was born in England, died in Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 8, 1688. He came to America in Brig Mary Ann, 1635, and was first in Newbury, then to Salisbury, Mass., his name appears in the records "of Salisbury" along with those of the 1st division of Colchester (now Salisbury), in 1640-41. In the Archives of Boston, no date indexed 1639, we find "the names of those who have tolls and proportions granted for towne of Colchester, in first division" the name of John Eyers. "This is a true copie of the original list taken out of the old book of records for Salisbury as attests Vera Copia Atest. Thos. Bradbury sec. Edward Rawson Secretary." According to the first division of ye towne of Salisburie there was granted unto John Ayers, two acres more or less for a home lott lying between home of Daniel Ladd and John Stevens, also there was granted him six acres more or less for a planting lott, also there was granted him fower acres more or less of meddow lying upon the north side of the river Merrimack and joining Mr. Hood's meddow." ### SEVENTH GENERATION.

552000. ELEAZER AYER. (Timothy<sup>6</sup>, Joseph<sup>5</sup>, Timothy<sup>4</sup>, Joseph<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>.) 548001. He was born in Franklin, Conn., March 29, 1776. Eleazer was twice married, his first and second wives being daughters of Abner and Abigail Ladd of Franklin. He first married in Oct., 1802, Anna Ladd, who died Oct. 11, 1829. Later he married her sister Rebecca. Eleazer Ayer, like the others born in the same old spot, lived there and brought up a large family. When the youngest daughter was 21 years of age, a reunion was held over all the children. They went over across the way and there weighed upon the old grist mill scales and the ten weighed just one ton. Eleazer was an active man and many transactions in real estate are recorded. We find leases and deeds as follows :

May 29, 1805, Timothy deeded to Eleazer, land.

April 22, 1807, Aaron Bailey leased to Eleazer, land, 999 years.

Feb. 14, 1812, Phineas Corwin deeded land to Eleazer Ayer.

March 17, 1817, Joseph H. Ayer deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

March 18, 1818, John N. Champlin and Florinda Ayer deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

June 23, 1818, Othinie Gager deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

April 2, 1825, Reuben Burgess deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

April 11, 1842, Frederick Ayer of Amherst, N. Y., deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

Sept. 5, 1844, Uriah Ayer of Plattsburg, N. Y., deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

Sept. 18, 1844, Jason and Mary Roberts deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

Nov. 22, 1834, Samuel C. Ladd deeded to Eleazer Ayer.

In the house in which Eleazer Ayer was born, were also born 37 Ayers. Joseph 5th practically built the house as the previous one was only a small one. After Eleazer's death, this property passed out of the Ayer name, and only the cellar of the old house and part of the flume on the dam of the pond was left to tell where once was heard children's voices and the grinding of grain. A new house had been built near where the old one stood, by the new owner, but that, too, was going to decay, and the name of Ayer in Franklin is now (1902), only to be found in two families, both of whom are descendants of Timothy (6th). Residence, Franklin, Conn.

EYRE HISTORY.

REV. GEORGE EYRE OF BURLINGTON, N. J., AND PHILADELPHIA, PA. (1727).

The first member of the Eyre family to settle in England was Humphrey le Heyr, who was a Knight of William the Conqueror and fought at the battle of Hastings, 1066, where he lost one of his legs. The old family of England from the time of William the Conqueror, were no doubt adherents of the Church of Rome until the Reformation, say, during the reign of Henry VIII. about 1534, but a large number of the branches from the original stock remained Roman Catholics, especially those who settled in Ireland. The Eyre's of England, with few exceptions, belonged to the established church of England and the Eyre's of Ireland were in every case strict Roman Catholics.

Among the family in England there have been many who were titled and held positions of honor under the government. One a peer of the realm, who became Lord Eyre of Eyre Court Castle, Galway, Ireland. One Lord Chief Justice of Wiltshire. One Lieutenant General. One Governor of Canada, another Governor of Jamaica. Several members of Parliament. Many Counts and Barons. Many of them admirals of the Royal Navy and officers in the army.

One of the Wiltshire family, William Eyre of Wedhampton in Wiltshire, was chosen Prior of Christ Church in Hants, in 1502.

Francis Eyre, 2nd son of Sir Samuel Eyre, was Canon of Sarum and died Oct. 28, 1738, aged 68 years.

Samuel Eyre of Essex, 2nd son of the Right Hon. Sir Robert Eyre, Chancellor to the Prince of Wales, George II. and eventually Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, was a Doctor of Divinity and died Dec. 2, 1742.

The Very Rev. Giles Eyre was Dean of Killoloe, Ireland, and died 1757, he was a son of John Eyre of Eyrecourt Castle, Galway, Ireland. The Dean's eldest son John was elevated to the Irish Peerage in 1768.

Anthony William Eyre (father of Edward John Eyre, Governor of Jamaica, who crushed the negro rebellion in that Island) was a clergyman and held various cures and preferments, among others Stirling fleet near York and at a later period the Vicarage of Hornsea and the Rectory of Riston in the East Riding of Yorkshire. He died in 1848.

Gervaise Eyre, a descendant of Humphrey Le Heyr, married Mary Nevill, daughter of George Nevill, who was lineally descended from Ralph Nevill, 2nd Lord of Raby, who was lineally descended from the ancient Saxon King, Etheldred II. Sir Gervaise Eyre, of Nottinghamshire, England, grandson of Gervaise Eyre, lost his life while Governor of Newark Castle. May 5, 1645, fighting for his King, Charles I. The local historians of the day speak of Sir Gervaise as a man of irreproachable character, the best horseman in King Charles' army and add: "That had the King had many such soldiers as Sir Gervaise Eyre, he had neither lost his crown nor his life." His son, George Eyre, of Worksop, England, in the Pilgrim Father District, was born in 1620. Married in 1659, Elizabeth. He died March 16, 1708. She died Jan. 14, 1763. Children: 1. John. The following account of a visit to the home of the Eyre family in England was written by Rev. William Elliott Griffis, D.D., L.H.D. :

As is shown so clearly in Prof. Edward Arber's book "The Story of the Pilgrim Fathers, 1606-1626, A. D., as told by themselves, their friends, and their enemies," Worksop is in the south-western corner of the Pilgrim District in England, with East Retford on the southeast, Gainsboro in the northeast, and Scrooby in the northwest. For years, that is, since 1850, Scrooby has been the Mecca of the descendants of the Pilgrim fathers and mothers, and in Gainsboro, in July, 1902, the John Robinson Memorial Church and the ancient Guild Hall were the centres of the ter-centenary memorial celebration. More strictly speaking, "the Pilgrim District" in England is that inclosed by the two streams, or rivers, Ryton and Idle, which flow together and at Bawtry form the boundary of those three counties, York, Lincoln and Nottingham, "where they bordered closest together," which have furnished the world with the cradle land of a great nation.

In the great movement of the human mind which we call the Reformation, some of the Nevilles and some of the Eyres took the old or Catholic side, and others the new or Reformed. After the shaking and sifting that went on from the time of the Tudors to the Hanoverians, some remained with the free churches and some with the political or state church of England. Large numbers of the English Eyres are to this day Roman Catholics and many of them have followed the military profession. Of the churches at Rampton and Babworth, where the graves, memorial stones, bronzes, mural tablets, and stained glass windows commemorating the life and works of the Eyres are numerous and beautiful, the writer will speak further on.

When the ancient ideas of church government—so old that they seemed entirely new and dangerously novel—reached “the Pilgrim district,” they were stigmatized by the ecclesiastics in power as “Brownism,” and “the Separatists had not long to wait to see the bloodhound’s teeth.” One Gervase Nevyle, who was charged by the archbishop of York as being “one of the sect of Baroist or Brownist, holding and maintaining erroneous opinions and doctrines,” and in March, 1607, the archbishop’s messenger William Blanchard was sent to apprehend him. It is quite probable that this “Gervase Nevyle” was kinsman to the writer’s ancestors, the Eyres. What follows is from the book “The Pilgrims in Their Three Homes, England, Holland and America,” which contains the fullest account yet written of the life of the Pilgrims while in Holland.

“For such schismatical obstinacy and irreligion he was to be delivered by straight warrant ‘to the hands, ward and safe custody of the Keeper of His Majesty’s Castle of York.’ The accused appeared and made answer, March 22. The entry is in these words, ‘Office against Jervase Nevyle of Scrobie dio: Ebor.’ (diocese of York). The names of the informers who demanded that Richard Jackson and William Brewster, of Scrooby, gentlemen charged with Brownism, and later for not appearing ‘upon lawful summons at the collegiate church of Southwell,’ are also given. In the first hunt the seekers were unable to find their game, probably because the men were at that hour in the jail at Boston. The second attempt failed likewise, for they were probably then in Holland. The warrants issued for the arrest of Brewster are dated September 15 and December 1, 1607. A ‘very dangerous schismatical Separatist, Brownist and irreligious subject’ is the bishop’s description of each gentleman.”

On the 26th day of May, 1897, the first American Ambassador to Great Britain, at the end of his official service, the Hon. Thomas Francis Bayard, also a distant relative of the writer, delivered to Governor Roger Wolcott of Massachusetts the original manuscript of Governor William Bradford's "History of Plymouth Plantation" in which the story of the Pilgrim Fathers is told by one of themselves.

It was in June, 1891, as the chosen delegate from the National Council of the Congregational Churches of America to the World's International Congregational Council meeting in London, that the writer made his second journey to England and Holland, this time to make researches into the history of the Pilgrim Fathers more particularly, but also into the genealogy of the Eyre family. He spent several weeks in Amsterdam, Leyden, Delfshaven and many other places associated with Pilgrim history and in the archives where their names, as taxpayers, property owners, citizens, as betrothed and married, as living and dead, appear. He was armed in 1891 with letters from the secretary of state, the postmaster-general, the governor of Massachusetts and other prominent Americans, which opened many a door into the hospitalities of the homes of England and Holland.

In the following year he went again to Holland and England, visiting Raynham Hall (the seat of the Townsends), Gainsboro, Cambridge, and other historic places. Yet it was not until 1895, in another visit to Holland and England, that apart from archives and libraries, the writer could cry Eureka! He found the old home of the Eyres. He spent a night in Scrooby, where the Pilgrim Fathers had worshiped in the old Manor House of the Archbishop of York, when Sir Edwin Sandys was the owner of the estate, and William Brewster was the lessee.

In 1898 he visited Newark and the ruins of the old castle on the Trent river, in which and from which Colonel Gervaise Eyre commanded the cavalry for King Charles I. and near which place he was slain. Beautiful public gardens now cover the old site once so often stained with blood and long pestiferous with disease. Velvet-like grass, clinging vines and brilliant flowers make very lovely this place, so kindling to the imagination of the historical student. Adjoining the garden, the traceried ruins and the deep underground rooms with their columns and arches, is the Gilstrap free library, where I found a rich collection of books of local history. Reading about the Eyres and the place where so many of them were buried, and where once stood their ancestral halls, I determined to find them, even by the ambulando method. From Newark, I took a railroad run over to Southwell, saw the wonderful great Norman church, spared by the Parliamentary troops during the civil war, now erected into a cathedral, and having a chapter house which in the wonderful detail of the stone carving and tracery is unique in the world.

After dinner at the Saracen's Head Hotel I rode over to Retford and inquired from the men in the ticket office where "Rampton" was. They did not know. Just as in a previous occasion, within fifty miles of Scrooby, I could not persuade the ticket agent that there was such a place. Happily, however, one of the station porters informed me that Rampton was a village a few miles beyond the railway station of Cottam. So riding to Cottam, I walked in paths over fields of wheat and oats, through pastures rich in cows and willows that bordered the streams, and at Rampton, a village containing 325 people, was courteously received by the rector Rev. Frank G. White. Not even Mr. Murray's "Hand-Book for Derby, Notts, Leicester, and Stafford shires" notices Rampton, though the "red book" is rich in everything that relates to other picturesque details in Robin Hood's country. Nor do the other Gazetteers mention the charming place. The little church built back in Norman times, which badly needed repairs, was used for worship every Sunday. It is lined on both sides of the choir with tablets to the Eyres, one of them, a very modest brass, being in honor of the dashing cavalry commander, the superb cavalier, Col. Gervaise Eyre.

From the church I walked to the two gateways and dwellings, the old and the new, of the Eyres. One is a rather modest brick building going back to late Tudor times, when a brick house was a novelty and curiosity. The art of brick making having fallen into decay since Roman days, was reintroduced by the Dutch into England. Near by was an old stone gateway, still rather imposing, despite the mouldering of centuries and the gnawing of old time's tooth. One could easily recognize the Tudor roses, chiseled in stone, and also the heraldic sign of the Eyres, the greaved warrior's leg cut off near the thigh. Both these memorials of an earlier day were half hidden beyond trees and shrubbery, but hard by was another imposing stone gateway on the top of which cut in stone was again the decussated leg. This massive portal was the entrance to the driveway leading into the park and the manor house, which is rather an elegant spacious modern dwelling, which, however, with its numerous servants' houses and out-buildings was empty and deserted. Indeed it often happens that these entailed estates are too costly in their maintenance for their owners.

I took supper and spent all night at the Eyre Arms Inn, Mr. Quickfall, formerly coachman of Colonel Henry Eyre, proprietor, being the keeper and host. To please his guest, he kindly took from their frames photographs of the interior of the church and of the Eyre mansion, which I brought away as trophies. After exploring the village again, in "the dewy call of incense-breathing morn," I walked over the fields with the postman from Rampton to Cottam, and thence rode to Retford, taking a run once again to Worksop, making my second visit to this ancestral seat.

From Retford station, again I walked down to Babworth, finding a very fashionable neighborhood, full of elegant houses, a very pretty church and a most hospitable and delightful rector, who not only took me into the church and showed me all the sights, the tablets and graves of the Eyres, but also the superb stained glass window set up in memoriam to one of the Eyre military men killed in the Ashantee war in South Africa. I went all over the rectory, where, according to Prof. Arber, the Pilgrim movement originated. After lunching with the genial rector, Rev. Edmund St. Aubyn, wife and two daughters, I spent an hour or so over the parchments and papers of the parish records, finding them however too modern for any special use, the older records having long ago disappeared. Thence I rode over to Scrooby for my fourth visit, spending several hours in the church, manor house, parish clerk's house (exactly like one built in Shakespeare's time and older than the immortal bard), meeting also two Yankee modern Pilgrims on bicycles. Then I went on to York, spending the night at the Black Swan Hotel, exploring once more the old town where so much of English, Israelitish, Roman and Pilgrim Father history centers.

She died April 18, 1798. They had thirteen children.

When the Revolutionary war broke out these Eyre brothers, believing that in this instance war was necessary and righteous, as being, "resistance to revolution from without," took up arms against King George III. and in favor of the Continental Congress. Manuel Eyre built some of the first gunboats ordered by the Continental Congress on the site of his old industry now covered by the great yard of the Cramps, at Kensington, Philadelphia, in which are built the steel battleships of the United States Navy.

The following is the official record of his military services: "Manuel Eyre. Born 1736. Died 1805. 600150. COL. JEHU EYRE. (George.) 600006. He was born Jan. 10, 1738. He married Lydia Wright (daughter of Richard Wright, ship-builder, of Philadelphia). Colonel commanding the Philadelphia Artillery during the Revolutionary War, until his death, which occurred in July, 1781, from exposure. They had nine children.

Jehu Eyre carried on his boat-building enterprises as far west as the Ohio river. On the fall of the French power in America, and the surrender of Fort Pitt (which as a fortification commanding two rivers had been first begun by Washington and re-built and completed on another site by General Forbes in 1758), he accepted a commission, when but twenty-one years old, to build boats for the navigation of the Ohio river by the King's forces and by the new settlers. With a band of his ship-carpenters and boat-builders from Philadelphia he traveled across the whole length of the state of Pennsylvania, the western part of which was still mainly forests, and remained many months at Pittsburg. On one of his excursions he visited Braddock's battlefield then still strewn with the whitened bones of the unburied slain. While at Fort Pitt he learned all the details of guns and ammunition, and how to handle artillery, and afterwards perfected himself by study. When the Revolution broke out he raised a regiment of artillery, mainly from men of his own shipyard, and drilled them into a crack organization, which served during the war. Col. Jehu Eyre had charge of the boats at the crossing of the Delaware, on Christmas morning, 1776, when General Washington marched to attack Trenton, General Glover's Marblehead regiment of Massachusetts water men transporting the army across the Delaware. Besides being in the Princeton campaign, Col. Jehu Ayre garrisoned the forts on the Delaware, during Sullivan's summer campaign of 1779 into Western New York, so that Proctor's artillery, of nine pieces and three hundred men, could be released for the great expedition against the Indians in the lake region. As we know, the heavy howitzers and cannon took part in and probably decided the battle of Newtown, near Elmira, August 29, 1779, and that at least two three-pounders were taken as far as Honeoye, N. Y. The reader will find in the Pennsylvania Magazine of Biography and History an account of Manuel Eyre and Col. Jehu Eyre, with the printed journal of the latter which describes his journey to Pittsburg. In the story of General John Sullivan's great march against savagery, which opened western New York to civilization, entitled "The Pathfinders of the Revolution," are word pictures of Colonel Eyre's home in Philadelphia, both at the outset of the expedition and on its return.

The following is the official record of his military services: "Jehu Eyre. Born 1738. Died 1781. Captain, Philadelphia City Guard, Aug. 30, 1775; Captain of Artillery, Philadelphia Brigade, Gen. John Cadwallader, June 5, 1777; Colonel, Philadelphia Artillery Battalion, Aug. 25, 1775; at Trenton, Princeton, Germantown and Valley Forge; commanded the Forts at Mud Island and Billingsport, 1780. 600201. Mary. Married Samuel Fennimore. Farmer. 600880.

600220. COL. BENJAMIN GEORGE EYRE. (George.) 600011.

He was born June 1, 1747. He married (1st) Hester Boyle of Philadelphia. She died at the age of 22 years. They had one child. He married (2nd) in 1773, Mary Cheeseman (daughter of Thomas Cheeseman of New York). She was born May 22, 1756. They had two children.

Benjamin George Eyre was a colonel during the Revolution, and enjoyed greatly the confidence of Washington. Although manuscript evidence is lacking for the statement, yet it is an unquestioned fact that he was aid de camp of General Washington at the battle of Princeton. Why documentary evidence does not exist, we shall show further on. John Trumbull the painter, as an officer in the American army, took part at Princeton, and in his superb picture of the battle, as well as in the four or five sketches which he made for the canvas, which are now in the possession of the School of Fine Arts at Yale University, Col. Benjamin Eyre is in every case represented on horseback with his hat off and charging sword in hand. General Washington presented his aid with a handsome punch bowl and for years afterwards—as the writer has often heard from old members of the family relatives who remembered seeing it,—Col. Eyre was very proud of this token of his commander's esteem. The fatigues of the war finally undermined his constitution and he died July 11, 1789. In those days, before telegraphs and railways, when his wife and other members of his family were at the eastern end of Long Island and it being mid summer, burial had to be made quickly.

Then came the disaster to history. Those who have read Dr. Weir's "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," know how great was the division between those of the Friends who adhered to old traditions and those who threw off their Quaker coats and took up arms. In the preface to "The Romance of Conquest," the fact is referred to that the Free Quakers of Philadelphia inscribed on their new meeting house "Erected in the year of our Lord, 1783, of the Empire 8," and that in doing so they were not Jingos or "Imperialists," but believers in God and in the growth of the United States of America. Washington and many of the Revolutionary fathers subscribed to this new house of worship, which stood on the southwest corner of 5th and Arch in Philadelphia, directly opposite to Christ's Church burying ground, in which Benjamin and Deborah Franklin are buried. Herein, also, rest the remains of Captain John Griffis, Col. Benjamin G. Eyre, Charles E., Esther, Nathan and Samuel G. Eyre. See Record of the Inscriptions of Tablets and Gravestones in the Burial Grounds of Christ's Church.

Col. Jehu Eyre in making his will (probably as far back as before the opening of the war which so divided the Society of Friends) had named two of his Quaker brethren, men of undoubted probity, as his executors. With the stern convictions of primitive Quaker orthodoxy, they proceeded immediately after the funeral to carry out the terms of the will. They were clothed with full power, but evidently Col. Jehu Eyre had not foreseen that he would die alone, when his family were absent and that the executors would be so ruthlessly literal. But these mighty men of God proceeded, even "as a shepherd divideth his sheep and the goats." They put on the lefthand, the warrior's chapeau, epaulettes, military coats, side-striped trousers, spurs, and every memento of war, even letters from Washington, Hamilton, Sullivan and other Revolutionary generals, indeed all that savored of what in their eyes was a Belial and Moloch. With strictest integrity, they appraised the value of all in cash, turning the amount over to the estate. Then they brought in two flour barrels, packed in them the pomp and glory of the soldier, and every article in metal, cloth or paper, or that with ink suggested war, and headed up the receptacles. Setting out in the night they found a soft place in the middle of a public road out in the country and digging a hole, buried the two barrels. They smoothed over the top and the wagon tracks soon left the precious records and relics in oblivion. History suffered, the members of Col. Eyre's family on their return were indignant, but tears and wrath were alike useless. The two Friends, executors, were as inexorable as they were honest. Hence, we must depend on the artist's testimony, and the unbroken and unanimous family traditions for Col. Benjamin George Eyre's part in the battle of Princeton. For several years the relics of Colonel Jehu Eyre were exhibited in glass cases in Independence Hall. He died July 11, 1789. Residence, Kensington, Philadelphia, Pa.

600620. CAPT. JOHN GRIFFIS. Of the ancestry of Captain John Griffis, beyond family tradition, little is directly known. The Griffiths were a Welsh clan spelling their name originally Cryffyd, and anglicizing it as Griffith, the word meaning literally "great faith." The variations of the name, both in Welsh and English, are many. Of the most common of fifty names in England and Wales, Smith, Jones, Williams, etc., Griffiths stands as fiftieth in frequency. In 1840, 38,400 people in the island of Britain, or in other words, one out of 579 of the people in England and Wales in 1840 was a Griffith—in the original or variant form. In the cathedral at Bangor and in many Welsh churches, one can read the mortuary records of many members of this sturdy clan. The particular line of Griffiths in which we are interested went out of Wales, some into Hampshire, but most into Devonshire, England, and those in the latter county became seafaring men, so that for eight generations previous to the present writer, the Griffiths men—a John being in every generation—have followed the sea. Let us now look at the American Griffis, in which we are especially interested.

According to family tradition, John Griffis was born in England in Devonshire, August 16, 1766, and from an early age followed the sea. In politics he was opposed to the policy of King George III. and to the coercion of the colonies during the Revolutionary war. Soon after peace was declared, he came to America, dropped the th out of his name, and engaged in the trade with the West Indies. He was on at least one voyage to China, and brought back a handsome dinner set decorated to order. He commanded ships which sailed frequently from Salem and Newburyport, Mass. During the period of French spoliations of our commerce by the cruisers and privateers of the French Republic, and Directory, Captain Griffis suffered great losses at the hands of these commerce destroyers. His name appears frequently in the records and papers of the French spoliation claims, which by the convention between the United States and France ratified July 31, 1801, estimated the damages to our commerce at $20,000,000. After eighty-four years' agitation, for payment to American citizens, President Cleveland signed, January 1st, 1885, a bill authorizing claimants to apply by petition to the Court of Claims for indemnity.

On the records of pilotage, in the custom house, the city directories and newspaper notices and advertisements of Philadelphia the name of Captain John Griffis figures prominently, showing that he was a man of note in the commercial world. On the roll of the Society of Masters of Ships his name appears as having taken membership July, 1799. The act incorporating this society, organized July 4th, 1765, and incorporated in 1770, bears the name of Thomas Paine as clerk of the assembly, and the supplementary act that of Governor Thomas Mifflin.

When Captain Griffis who was a Presbyterian, married Hannah Eyre, a Friend, Nov. 28, 1802, she was "read out of meeting" by the Quakers for marrying outside her sect. Their home was then in the fashionable quarter of the city, first at No. 39 Penn and then at 260 South Front street, Philadelphia, in 1806 having but 13,000 people. Though of superb physical development, vigorous and active in his movements, Captain Griffis lost his life by overstrain. Finding his men not so spry in unloading the ship as he wished them to do, he seized a flour barrel and with both hands held it up over his head, ran along the wharf and deposited the barrel where it belonged, and then—fell over dead. He was buried in Christ Church graveyard, a few yards south of Benjamin Franklin and among many of the fathers of the republic. He was born Sept. 20, 1766. He married Nov. 28, 1802, Hannah Eyre. 600056. He died April 2, 1807. They had two children.

605320. JOHN LIMEBURNER GRIFFIS. (John.) 600621. He was born in 1805. He married April 11, 1837, Anna Maria Hess of Philadelphia. (The Hess family of Philadelphia are believed to have emigrated from Zurich in German Switzerland not long after William Penn arrived in Pennsylvania. William Hess, son of George Hess, was born July 1st, 1785, and died March 9th, 1825, in Philadelphia. He married Margaretta (the youngest of three daughters of John Harby and wife Margaret) who was born July 3rd, 1782, at Whitmarsh near Philadelphia and was married in 1806. She was one of the little girls dressed in white who in 1789 welcomed Washington into Philadelphia on his way to New York as President, and scattered flowers before his horse. It is believed that John Harby was of German origin, though he may have been of English descent.)

John Limeburner Griffis, probably named after an English friend in Totnes, Devonshire, was carefully educated in the city of Philadelphia and at a school at Mount Airy, in preparation for West Point. Instead of this, however, he went to sea when but twelve years of age and thenceforth followed the ocean, making voyages to the West Indies, Europe, Africa, the East Indies, the Philippines, etc. On one voyage he and the whole crew were lost upon an island in the Pacific, and lived for six months among the natives, being kindly treated. Before reaching shelter, they lived in open boats on the sea at starvation point, catching flying fish and land birds. For want of food, they came very near being obliged to draw lots for a human victim. A ship sent by the United States government brought them all safely home. In time, John L. Griffis rose to be Captain and part owner of his own ship.

In 1837, April 11th, he married Anna Maria Hess of Philadelphia, being united in the bonds of wedlock by the Rev. John Chambers, who was pastor of the same church for fifty-four years. On marrying, Captain Griffis gave up seafaring, settled at New Brunswick, N. J., and invested his money in a steamboat, towing canal boats loaded with Pennsylvania coal from the end of the Delaware and Raritan Canal to New York. Sometimes he went up the Hudson river, occasionally going with the boats as far as Buffalo, speculating on his own account by taking coal and bringing back the produce of the country to New York and Philadelphia. Once his freight of perishable material was caught by the frost and he lost his cargo. He was one of the charter members in the formation of the 2nd Presbyterian church at New Brunswick. His bride attending the commencement of Rutgers College vowed that if ever she should be the mother of a son to study for the ministry, he should be educated in Rutgers College. Captain Griffis all his life kept up his reading habits and accumulated a large library. Returning to Philadelphia he embarked in the coal business in which he was very successful. He took especial interest in the building of the United States steam frigate Susquehanna in view of Commodore Perry's voyage to Japan, and on the occasion of her launching at the Philadelphia Navy Yard he had a platform built for the accommodation of several hundred spectators. He died of pneumonia April 2, 1879, at midnight, aged seventy-four. His wife Anna Maria Griffis died January 17th, 1872.

gomery and Delaware for twelve years, collecting thirty million dollars. He died May 14th, 1879. He was married about October 24th, 1843. For many years he was a member and choir leader of the Presbyterian church at Fourth and Coates, of which the bride's mother was a charter member. He was educated in the Public and High Schools of Philadelphia, and then was for five years employed by Carrow, Thibault & Co., wholesale manufacturers of jewelry. He became a member of the First Independent Church of Philadelphia, Rev. John Chambers pastor, at the age of fourteen. Later he united with the Second Reformed (Dutch) Church, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage pastor, and edited a monthly Sunday School paper, entitled Our Messenger, during two years. Feeling called to the gospel ministry, he prepared under a private tutor for Rutgers College.

At the breaking out of the war he desired to enlist in the Ad-derson cavalry, but yielded to his parents' wishes and remained in the Home Guard, joining the Spencer Miller Howitzer Battery, learning the artillery drill, and afterwards the Philadelphia Zouaves, under Captain John Sword, learning the infantry drill and camping out for part of a summer at Valley Forge. He visited Baltimore in 1863 to recruit his health, somewhat broken by chills and fever, and was on the farm of a relative when it was visited by the pickets of the Confederate army then marching into Pennsylvania. Upon this he immediately passed through the barricades around Baltimore and arriving in Philadelphia, enlisted the next morning in the 44th Pennsylvania regiment of militia and proceeded to camp Curtin near Harrisburg, and later to the fords of the Potomac. He was made color corporal and served as secretary of the company, making the muster rolls which are still in Harrisburg.

Entering Rutgers College in September 1865, he took in his course five prizes for English composition and Natural Science. He was sophomore, junior and senior orator, and member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. He gave much time to general reading, not forgetting athletics, and stood at graduation fifth in the class. He founded The Targum the college newspaper which still flourishes. His fraternity was the Delta Upsilon at whose conventions, as delegate or orator he has been often present. From the proceeds of money earned by making fraternity and society badge pins, he started for travel in Europe June 26th, 1869. He had studied colloquial German, with the view of taking his three years theological course at Halle, Gottingen, and Berlin, but was dissuaded from this purpose (by Dr. John R. Posey, of Philadelphia). With his sister he spent four months abroad including a trip into Italy and a pedestrian tour in Switzerland, where he visited the famous historian Merle D'Aubigne. Other famous personages seen were Gladstone and the Princess of Wales, now the Queen of England. He was at Paris at the Centennial Anniversary of the birthday of Napoleon Bonaparte. One of his traveling acquaintances in England was Miss Saxton, who became the wife of President McKinley.

Returning to America he took one year of theological study at Hertzog Hall, New Brunswick, N. J. For several years, since 1867, Japanese students had been coming to America and he had taught some of those who first came. As he was about to enter upon the second year of his theological studies, a call came from Daimio or Baron of Echizen, Japan, for a teacher of the natural sciences and superintendent of education. He went to Japan arriving December 29th, 1870, and served nearly four years in the government educational service. One year was spent in the city of Fukui, during which time he observed the workings of the feudal system, being the only white man now living who thus did so. Leaving Fukui January 22nd, 1872, he made an overland journey across the country to Tokio. Besides three years in the capital he traveled in many parts of the empire and made investigations into Japanese history and archaeology, having audience of the Mikado and receiving handsome presents on expiration of his term of service. Returning home in 1874 he spent two years in lecturing and in writing "The Mikado's Empire" now in its ninth edition. He then entered Union Seminary in New York City and completed his three years of theological study. He was licensed by the Manhattan Congregational Association and also by the Classis of Schenectady. His first charge was the First Reformed Dutch Church of Schenectady, which he served nine years. For one year he was professor in Union College which in 1883 conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Mr. Griffis began early writing for the press, but his first important contribution was an editorial in the New York Independent on The Japanese Students in America. While in Japan he issued the Tokio Guide, the Yokohama Guide, and Map of Tokio with notes historical and explanatory. On the 6th of August 1876, his work The Mikado's Empire, consisting of two books, one on the history of Japan, the other of personal experiences, studies, and observations, in Japan 1870-1874, was issued by Messrs. Harper & Brothers. It opened a new era in the average American's knowledge of Japan and is yet the standard authority and favorite with tourists and travelers. After nearly nine years' service in the ministry of the Reformed Dutch Church, of which he had been a member since 1861, he was called to the Shawmut Congregational church of Boston, Mass., which he served seven years. In Boston he was honored with membership in the Congregational, Winthrop, Ministers', and Monday Clubs. From 1886 to 1902 he has contributed one or more sermons to the volume annually issued by the latter. While in Boston he was Dupleian lecturer at Harvard. In 1893 he accepted a call to the First Congregational Church of Christ in Ithaca, N. Y., beginning his ministry July 1st, 1893.

He married (1st) June 17th, 1879, Katharine Lyra (first daughter of Professor Benjamin I. Stanton of Union College and Katharine P. Coffin of New Hampshire). The children born were Lillian Eyre, Stanton and John Elliot. She died in Ithaca, December 9th, 1898, and was buried in Schenectady. He married (2nd) June 28th, 1900, by Rev. Jesse B. Felt in the Congregational church at Pulaski, N. Y., Sarah Frances King, daughter of Don Alonzo King, whose ancestors came from Northampton, England, to Northampton, Mass., whence they emigrated to Pulaski, N. Y.

Mr. Griffis has six times visited Europe, his favorite haunts being Holland and England, at the universities of which he has considerable acquaintance, and has preached in many of the Congregational churches of England and Scotland, as well as in the English churches of Holland. Besides contributing to the periodical press and to several encyclopædias, the list of his public works which relate chiefly to Dutch, American and Japanese history and biography, is as follows:

The Mikado's Empire, 1876; Japanese Fairy World, 1880; Asiatic History: China, Korea and Japan, 1881; Corea: The Hermit Nation, 1882; Corea, Without and Within, 1885; Matthew Calbraith Perry, 1887; The Lily Among Thorns, 1889; Honda, the Samurai, 1890; Sir William Johnson and the Six Nations, 1891; Japan: in History, Folk-lore and Art, 1892; Brave Little Holland and What She Taught Us, 1894; The Religions of Japan, 1895; Townsend Harris, First American Envoy in Japan, 1895; Romance of Discovery, 1897; Romance of American Colonization, 1898; Romance of American Conquest, 1899; The Pilgrims in Their Three Homes, 1898; The Students' Motley, 1898; The American in Holland, 1899; America in the East, 1899; Verbeck of Japan, 1900; The Pathfinders of the Revolution, 1900; In the Mikado's Service, 1901.

While in Boston he was sent as delegate of the National Council of Congregational churches in America to the International Council of Congregational churches throughout the world meeting in London in 1891. The Shawmut church paid all expenses of himself and Mrs. Griffis amounting to $1,700, and at the end of his ministry presenting him with a gold watch and the sum of $2,300.

Mr. Griffis has been member of the American Geographical Society, being several times lecturer before that body, on Japan, Korea, and Holland, his papers being published in the Society's Bulletin; and of the American Oriental Society, before which he read a paper on the Recent Revolutions in Japan, highly commended by Prof. Whitney and published in the North American Review. He has been made honorary member of several Japanese learned societies and belongs to the Asiatic Society of Japan and the Asiatic Society of Korea. In the Netherlands, his writings on Holland have won recognition by election to membership in the Netherlandish Society of Letters at Leyden, and Zeenwsch (Zealand) Society of Sciences (elected, 1893). He is also a life member of the American Historical Association, of the United States Naval Institute and of the American Institute of Arts and Letters, and of the American Society of Comparative Religion. He has been president of the Central Congregational Club of Central New York and of the DeWitt Historical Society of Tompkins County. He has been Morse lecturer (1894) in Union Theological Seminary and lecturer on the religions of Chinese Asia before the Theological Seminary at Bangor, Me., and on Missions before Yale University, and preacher to Yale, Rutgers and Chicago University. Residence, 1902, Ithaca, N. Y.

EYRE HISTORY.

ROBERT EYRE OF CHESTER COUNTY, PA. (1683.)

620000. ROBERT EYRE. He was born Jan. 30, 1648 (?), in England. He served his apprenticeship with William Rogers, a merchant of Bristow, a town on the borders of Somerset and Gloucestershire. Here he acquired a ready use of the pen which fitted him for the duties he was subsequently called on to discharge. After the expiration of his apprenticeship he for some time followed the sea as supercargo, but eventually migrated to Pennsylvania, where he married Ann, daughter of Francis Smith, a gentleman of education and wealth, whose residence was Devizes, in the county of Wilts, and who was one of the original purchasers of land in England. He afterwards settled at Kennet, Pa. On the authority of tradition Robert Eyre first settled in Jersey. Part of the land purchased by Francis Smith was located in Bethel Township, Chester Co., Pa., and was conveyed at an early date to Robert Eyre and his wife. This doubtless caused Robert to change his place of residence. In 1683 he was appointed Clerk of the Courts of Chester County, Pa., which office he held until 1690. ## THIRD GENERATION.

800000. JOSEPH AYER. (John<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>.) 538500. Joseph Ayer is first mentioned in the land records in Norwich, Conn. He is that Joseph Ayer of Haverhill, County of Essex, Mass., who bought 300 acres at Porttapange in Norwich for £300, June 8, 1702. This Porttapange is in the east part of what is now Franklin, Conn., set off from Norwich and lies near what is known as Ayer's Mt. and on Ayer's Gap. The house he built is under the Ayer Mt. near the Gap. A grist mill was built there by this Ayer, and the dam and part of the flume is still standing.

Will of Joseph Ayer of Norwich, Conn.:

"In the Name of God, Amen, the sixth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and thirty-six, I, Joseph Ayer, of Norwich, in the County of New London, in the Colony of Connecticut in New England, being weak in body but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given to God, therefore, calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for all men to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament, principally and first of all, I give and recommend my soul unto the hands of God, that gave it, and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried in decent Christian burial at the discretion of my executors, hereafter named, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection, I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God, and as touching such worldly estate as it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give and desire and dispose of the same in the following manner and form :

“Impremis. I give and bequeath to my well beloved son, Joseph Ayer, twenty shillings in or as money to be paid out of my estate, I having formerly given to him a tract of land by deed.

“Item. I having formerly given to my well beloved son, Timothy Ayer, sundry tracts and parcels of land by deed, I now give and bequeath to him twenty shillings in or as money to be paid out of my estate.

“Item. I having formerly given to my well beloved daughter, Sarah Heason (Hazen), the wife of Thomas Heason, sundry goods and other things of value, I now give and bequeath to her twenty shillings to be paid out of my estate.

“Item. I having formerly given to my well beloved daughter, Abigail Manough, the wife of Dennis Manough, sundry goods of value. I now give and bequeath to her twenty shillings money to be paid to her out of my estate, and my will is that all the rest and residue of my moveable estate, money, goods, chattels that shall remain after my just debts and the said legacies are paid, shall be divided among my three children in the following manner and forms: That is to say, one quarter of said estate to my son, Joseph Ayer, and the rest and residue of it to be equally divided among or between my said two daughters, and my will is that, if any or either of my said children shall die before they receive their legacies herein given, that it shall then descend to their children and if they have no children then to the survivors, and whereas I have given all my land that I know of or can remember that I have to my said sons, now if it should happen that there are lands belonging to me not disposed of, I give and bequeath the same to my son, Joseph Ayer, and to his heirs and assigns forever; and I do hereby make and ordain and appoint my said son, Joseph Ayer, to be my executor of this my last will and I do hereby revoke, disannul and make void and every other will and testament by me at any time before made, ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament, in witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year first above written.

EYRE HISTORY.

KATHERINE EYRE OF BOSTON, MASS. (1638.)

FIRST GENERATION.

930000. REV. CHARLES CHAUNCY. (George Chauncy and Agnes Welsh.) He was baptized Nov. 5, 1592, at Yardley-Bury, Hertfordshire, England. He was the emigrant ancestor of all who bear the name of Chauncy or Chauncey in the United States. He received his preparatory training at Westminster school, and entered Trinity College, Cambridge, where he was made a Bachelor of Arts in 1613, and a Master of Arts in 1617. He was also made a Fellow of the College, and in 1624 was given the degree of B.D. He was chosen professor of Hebrew, but resigned, and was appointed to the Greek professorship. He remained at Trinity for some time, and then preached for a season at Marston-Laurence, Northamptonshire. He married, March 17, 1630, Catharine Eyre (daughter of Robert Eyre, Barrister, of Sarum, Wilts, and Ann Still, daughter of Rt. Rev. John Still, Bishop of Bath and Wells. She was probably a sister or near relative of Dr. Simon Eyre as John Eyre, son of Dr. Simon Eyre, named one of his daughters Catharine, and another daughter, Bethia Eyre, became the wife of John Walley, whose sister, Sarah Walley, married Charles Chauncy, grandson of President Chauncy). In 1627 he became vicar of Ware, Hertfordshire, where his peculiar puritanical opinions involved him in difficulties with his ecclesiastical superiors. In January, 1629, he was called before the high commission court on the charge of having used in his sermons certain expressions condemnatory of the church, and is said to have made his submission to Bishop Land. In 1635 he was again prosecuted for opposing the railing in of the communion table at Ware; was suspended, cast into prison, condemned to pay costs, and obliged to make a humiliating recantation. He left England late in 1637, and arrived at Plymouth, Mass., in May, 1638. For about three years he preached with Mr. Reyner at Plymouth, and in 1641 was elected pastor of the church at Scituate, where he preached for twelve years. His pastorate in Scituate was for many reasons unpleasant to him, partly because of a difference of opinion among his parishioners, and partly because of a lack of financial support. His persecutor, Bishop Land, had been executed, and a change had taken place in the attitude of the church; Mr. Chauncy was invited to return to Ware, and had reached Boston whence he was to sail, when he was invited to become President of Harvard College. He was inaugurated Nov. 29, 1654, and entered upon the duties of the office at a salary of £100 per annum. He was the author of several works. He died Feb. 19, 1672, at Cambridge, Mass. She died Jan. 23 (o. Nov. 24), 1667.

AYARS HISTORY.

ROBERT AYARS OF HOPKINTON, R. I., AND COHANSEY, N. J. (1684.)

ADDITIONS.

FIRST GENERATION.

969395. ROBERT AYARS. 650000. 965000. Robert Ayars, in addition to the 800 acres of land he owned in Shrewsbury Neck, where he lived and died in 1719, purchased of James Wass of London, Eng., by his agents, Wm. Biles, Edward Shippin and Joseph Wass, Nov. 20 and 21st, 1705, 2200 acres of the south part of the Wass Survey of 5000 acres James Wass purchased of John Fenwick of Salem, N. J., before he left England in 1675. Fenwick purchased of Lord Berkley, in 1673, one-tenth of West New Jersey, being then the County of Salem. Cumberland was set off in 1747. The beginning corner was at a white oak tree marked (J) I W, 12 notches standing on the brow of a hill ye south side of ye northwest branch of the Cohansey river, known later by the name of Barratt's Run. The village of Shiloh is nearly central of the 2200 acres. The year, 1718, in May, Robert made deeds to four of his children, Isaac, Caleb, Sen., Robert, Hester's husband, John Jarman, and grandson, Caleb, Jr., son to Isaac, conveying the 2200 acres to them. John Jarman's southwest corner beginning at a tree standing where the roads crosses in Shiloh, thence running east to the Wass line, thence north to now the Elmer farm along the line of Minch and Harris, thence west to the road leading from Greenwich through Cohansey Corners (Shiloh) to Philadelphia, thence along the road to the beginning tree (a later deed mentions the road). Robert's grandson, Caleb, Jr., 300 acres, beginning at John Jarman's corner tree at the crossroads in Shiloh running north 204 perches, thence west 250 to the Wass west line, thence south 204 to middle of the road at the John Bacon farm, thence east 250 to the beginning corner tree in Shiloh. Caleb, Sen.'s portion was bounded on the north by Jarman's and Caleb, Jr.'s land. Robert's bounded on the north by Caleb, Sen.'s land. Isaac's portion bounded on the north by Robert, Jr.'s land, covering the 2200 acres, each having between 400 and 500 acres, except Caleb, Jr. They all had allowance for roads. A few words about the Ayars part of their names. The deed Robert made to his grandson, Caleb, Jr., the Ayars was written Ayres by the person who wrote the deed, when Robert signed his name he wrote Ayars. Robert's son, Isaac, sold his portion to his daughter Abigail's husband, Caleb Barratt, April 21, 1725, for 107 pounds; when he signed his name he wrote "Isaac Ayars." Isaac's grandson, Joseph Ayars, made a deed in 1747 to his daughter Susannah's husband, Mark Bacon, in Salem County; he wrote his name Ayars. Those three original deeds have been seen, and the name as witnesses to deeds, and old book accounts, etc. Those who wish to be the descendants of Robert Ayars let them write Ayars. The above ought to satisfy any one. Caleb Ayars, Sen., son of Robert and Esther Ayars, made a deed of gift March 4, 1738, for one acre to the Seventh Day Baptist Church of Cohansey Corners (Shiloh) for a meeting house and burying ground. A house of worship was erected the same year. One feature of the house consisted of a large fireplace in the centre of the room. Another fact was the second pastor, Jonathan Davis, Jr., at his death, July 23, 1785, by his request, was buried at the spot under where he knelt between the pulpit and fireplace when he was ordained to the ministry, Nov. 12, 1768 (about fifteen months before the first pastor, Jonathan Davis, died). The place is identified by a large flat tomb stone placed over his grave, being the one north of two others and nearest the road Avenue running east from Shiloh Corners. A brick house of worship 40 by 45 feet was erected in 1771 a short distance west from the other. About 1774 the frame building was moved to the Corners by Rev. Jonathan Davis, second pastor, and placed on the southeast corner of the 300 acres of Caleb Ayars, Jr.'s gift from his grandfather, Robert Ayars, in 1718. Jonathan Davis, 2nd, purchased about 18 acres of Isaac and Mary, son of Caleb Ayars, Jr., April 20, 1773. Jonathan sold some building lots in 1774, and moved the meeting house to the corner; also named the place Shiloh in commemoration of the Ark resting at Shiloh in the days of the Israelites. The house was fitted up for a dwelling. After 1797 it was used for a cabinet makers and carpenter shop, and Elijah Ayars had charge of it. (His wife Ann became seized of it from her father, Rev. Jonathan, 2nd.) Isaac<sup>6</sup> Ayars (Micajah<sup>5</sup>, Nathan<sup>4</sup>, Caleb<sup>3</sup>, Isaac<sup>2</sup>, Robert<sup>1</sup>) learned his trade of his uncle Elijah. After Elijah's death in 1818, the property became the right of his son Oswell who sold it to Enos F. Randolph in 1830. It was converted into a barn and stands at the west end of C. H. Shepard's barn about one-half mile north of where it stood, 1830 now 1903, making it 164 years old. March 27, 1737, the following persons organized themselves into a Seventh Day Baptist Church at Cohansey Corners (Shiloh): Constituent Members—John Swinney, wife Deborah Swinney; Dr. Elijah Bowen, wife Deborah Bowen, daughter of above; John Jarman; Caleb Barratt, wife Abigail (Ayars) Barratt; Hugh Dunn, wife Amy Dunn; Jonathan Davis, wife Esther (Ayars) Davis; Caleb Ayars, Jr.; Joseph Swinney, wife Deborah Swinney; Samuel Davis, wife Anna Ayars Davis; Jean Phillips of Newtown Square, Pa.; Anna Swinney; eighteen in number. Jonathan Davis above was chosen at the Constitution of the Church to be their pastor, and was ordained November 26, 1738, in the church erected that year. He died Feb. 2, 1769, aged sixty years.

He has taken great interest in collecting the Ayars records. The following letter was written by him :

"SHILOH, N. J., March 5, 1903.

"MR. M. E. POOLE, Dear Sir:—In the year 1771 a brick church or house of worship, 40 x 45 feet, was erected a short distance west of the first one, and in 1824 a gallery was put on three sides to make more seating room, and the house was occupied until 1850 when a new brick one was erected, size 42 x 64, about twenty rods farther west with gallery in west end. The old brick house was converted into an Academy the same year, 1850, and occupied until the spring of 1867. A new academy brick building, 50 x 55 feet, was erected on Brideton Avenue in 1866, and was fitted up with three school apartments below and a hall above full size of the house, after which the old church building was taken down. The cemetery was enlarged in 1805 by another acre being purchased. In 1835 two acres on the west of the cemetery was purchased, and in 1850 two-thirds of it was set off for the new church building and church grounds or yard. The other one-third was added to the cemetery, making nearly two and one-half acres, and it looks as though it would have to be enlarged more before many years. About 200 of Robert Ayars' descendants are now living within or on the 2200 acres of land he purchased of James Wass; not very many by the name of Ayars. Robert Ayars sold his farm in Shrewsbury where he lived to his sons, Stephen and Joshua, about 800 acres."

He married Martha Lyon in Newton, Mass., Oct. 25, 1835. She was born in Middlebury, Vt., Aug. 17, 1810 (daughter of Amos<sup>6</sup> Lyon, Jacob<sup>5</sup>, Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, Peter<sup>3</sup>, Peter<sup>2</sup>, Peter<sup>1</sup> of Dorchester, and Abigail Greenwood, Isaac<sup>5</sup>, Nathaniel<sup>4</sup>, Josiah<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup> of Cambridge Village, now Newton, Mass.). She died in Romeo, Mich., May 22, 1892. He died in Romeo, Mich., April 30, 1883. Mr. Ayer was named for Dr. Alvan Bacon, of Biddeford, Me., with whom his father, Dr. Aaron Ayer, studied medicine. On the death of his father, in 1817, he was taken in charge by his relatives on his mother's side, living mostly with his uncle, Samuel Merrill, in Biddeford, until he was of age; during which time he learned carpentry and cabinet making. Afterward he worked awhile at ship carpentry; his specialty was finishing the interior of cabins. In 1833, when he was twenty-four years of age, we find him in the village of Oldtown, Maine, running a carpenter and cabinet shop. He had quite strong musical tastes and abilities; at this time he spent many of his evenings conducting a singing school. It was on one of these occasions that he first met his future wife, who was visiting with an elder married sister in Oldtown. In the fall of 1835 he went to Newton, Mass., and married the girl of his choice. They went directly to a home he had prepared in the town of Lincoln, Me. For the ensuing two years his principal business was carpentry and millwright work. In the fall of 1838 he took a contract to run a sawmill in Lincoln, and this business which he pursued at that time and place for three years, and again from 1847 to 1852, settled his life work ; from then on he was a lumberman. In 1844 or '45 he took his family to Detroit, Michigan, where he was interested in lumbering ; in '47 he returned to Lincoln ; in '52 back to Detroit, leaving his family in Lowell, Mass., and making them a lengthy visit once or twice a year. In '55 he took them all to Michigan and settled in a village called Romeo. His reason for selecting that location was twofold ; it was just half way between Detroit and the scene of his lumbering operations, and it was the nearest place to his business where he could find good schools for his children. In this place he continued to reside until the time of his death, twenty-eight years later. Lumbering was nearly his sole business, and at it he acquired a modest competence. He was for many years a director in one of the village banks. Such property as he acquired he seemed to care little for except as it might help to give his children an easier start in life than he himself had had. He was always ready to do his share either in the way of charity, or in enterprises for the benefit of the public. In politics he was a Democrat until the birth of the Republican party in 1856. His impulses were all patriotic ; the government had no more loyal supporter during the dark days of the Civil War than he. Too old to serve himself, he influenced several among his employés to join the army, and aided them both with money and counsel. His one trait which stood out above all others was his sterling honesty. He was a man in whom his business associates put the most implicit trust. His early education was confined to what the Maine common school of eighty years ago could impart ; but he was one of the kind of men whose education continues as long as life. He was all his life a great reader of good literature. His favorite was Shakespeare, whose works he always kept by him, when away from home, for "steady reading." There was no operation connected with his business that he could not perform as well as or better than the men in his employ, from felling a tree to driving the logs down the spring floods, which latter it was much his habit to assist in doing, until the "drive" was well out of the small streams and into deep water. His ancestors were all, so far as is known, among the old immigrant families of Haverhill, Newbury and Salisbury, Mass. At the present writing all of the lines have been traced back except that of his paternal grandmother, the wife of Timothy<sup>5</sup> Ayer. Among the more noteworthy of

JOHN PAULDING MEDAL FOUND.

Was Presented to Him by Congress for Major Andre's Capture.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 9.—The long lost medal which was presented to John Paulding in recognition of his patriotic service as one of the captors of Major Andre in this town, has been found, and under the most peculiar circumstances.

Dr. R. B. Coutant a few days ago met one of the owners of the Vanderbilt storehouse in Wilcox Street, and was invited to inspect certain articles of furniture, bric-à-brac, &c., on view there preparatory to their being sold at auction. He was informed that the goods had been in the storehouse twenty-six years, that the cause of the sale was an unpaid bill for charges overdue, and that their owner was a former resident of Tarrytown, the widow of an officer of the United States Army, the daughter of Frederick W. Paulding, the grandfather of Gen. Wm. Paulding of the War of 1812, who at one time was Mayor of the City of New-York, and the great-grandfather of Gen. William Paulding, of the American Revolution, one of the first members of the Federal Congress.

The lady is also the grandaunt of J. K. Paulding, the distinguished author and Secretary of the Navy under President Van Buren.

Dr. Coutant having entered the storehouse looked with interest upon the various articles in iron, wood, china, and glass presented to his view, he missed for a moment over the gleam of sword presented to Col. Richard Henry Lodge by his brother officers in 1862, wondered from which of the rich and wine glasses Lafayette drank when he was the guest of Gen. Paulding, and what the costly decanters contained on that occasion, and opened his eyes when he discovered the bookplates of J. K. Paulding and of Frederick W. Paulding in several finely bound volumes.

When a certain case was opened and a couple of medals came into view he gave way to a burst of genuine enthusiasm as he verified his first impression of one of them, and its rarity and value by a critical examination.

After he had recovered control of himself and made inquiry concerning the executor of the Vanderbilt estate he started out to look for him, and, having found him, explained his desire to secure the medal as a rare family relic and to hold it in trust for its owner.

The executor promptly expressed his desire to save to the family everything valued because of its associations, and granted the request at once.

Then for the first time he was made acquainted with the history of the medal, and displayed the emotions that every true American feels when he realizes it, and all it means to himself and the world at large.

This valuable relic had lain forgotten in the old storehouse for over a quarter of a century. Sixteen years ago, when the centennial of the capture of Andre was celebrated here by the Nation, the State, the county, and the town, one of the grandest affairs of the kind the country has ever known, this medal lay blackening in its wrapper of soiled paper, while each member of the Paulding family who passed its resting place would gladly have given one of his eyes for it. It was found upon his breast that day.

Several years ago Slater was offered a refused for one of these captors' medals for one each was given to the three captors—Paulding, Williams, and van Wart. And now this one came within a hair's breadth of being auctioned off in Tarrytown as an unknown and uninteresting piece of metal for 25 to 50 cents.

Then the question arose in the mind of Dr. Coutant how this interesting relic came into the possession of this branch of the family. William Paulding, who, as Mayor of New-York, delivered the address when the monument erected by that corporation to the memory of John Paulding was unveiled at Peekskill, was only a cousin of the hero. John Paulding was three times married, and was the father of nineteen children. While such dire misfortune may give a clue to the necessity which compelled him to part with his medal, it proves that no natural reason existed why it should pass into the possession of a collateral branch of the family.

The present custodian of the medal wrote to the owner of it immediately after it came into his possession, requesting instructions as to its disposition, but up to the present time has received no reply.

John Paulding, famous as one of the captors of André, was born at the Paulding homestead, east of Tarrytown, Oct. 16, 1758, the son of Joseph Paulding, Jr., and grandson of Joseph Paulding Sr., who was born in the City of New-York in 1706, son of James Paulding, early of Philipse Manor, and an officer of the old Dutch Church in Tarrytown. John was over six feet in height and was noted to have excelled in feats of strength. After the Revolution he settled upon the farm given him by the State, which had been the property of a Terv. Dr. Henshaw, and fled from Peekskill to Cornwall, and died near Lake Mahopac in 1818.
